Submission

Living Streets Aotearoa thanks the committee for this opportunity to submit on a proposal to stop a legal road.

Living Streets objects to the road stopping and sale of part of Aranui St road reserve, Miramar.

Aranui Street is a linking road from the Shelly Bay walkway through to the rest of Miramar Heights. It does not have a complete footpath connection to this walkway. This road reserve has the potential for other uses that would benefit the public in the future.

Specifically this road reserve could be used for footpath related activity, such as amenity planting and a 'parklet'.

Generally, every proposed road stopping should be subject to a standard assessment. The following matters (and any others that are relevant) should be covered in each assessment:

- * the potential to be used in widening footpaths, or providing footpath-related infrastructure (e.g. seating, bus shelters), or improving alignment of the footpath, or dealing with damage to the footpath (e.g. from slips). Again, the presumption should be not to lose that potential even if it is not able to be used immediately.
- * the potential to be used in restoration or amenity provision, including to improve the pedestrian environment (e.g. to plant shade or shelter trees), extending existing habitat, etc.
- * the potential to provide for off-street public parking. Often what the adjacent landowner wants land for is parking. In many of our narrow streets, it would make more sense for any excess road space to be treated as public parking spaces, and retaining control of the parking space asset is essential, These could be leased to the owner as an encroachment, or used as bookable spaces for trades people, coupon parking, etc. This extension of public vehicle parking space would allow council to provide better pedestrian amenities (e.g. wider footpaths, kerb extensions) as it would not be limited by lack of on-street car-parking. Public parking spaces will have greater benefit compared to private ownership in terms of stopping cars parking on footpaths.

* the potential for the road proposed to be stopped to be used as a through-pedestrian route. The presumption should be in favour of preserving the potential route, of a width sufficient for a footpath or stairway to the appropriate pedestrian standards. If it has that potential, stopping should only be considered if the route is highly unlikely ever to be used as a through route - once it's stopped that potential has gone.

We note that the potential for land to be used productively until it is needed for future public uses is not lost by a decision not to stop the road. The land can still be leased to neighbours and used for vehicle parking as it currently is.

We would like to be heard in support of our submission.

About Living Streets
